Many of our older children enjoy online gaming and our smaller children are sometimes aware of online gaming through their older brothers and sisters. Online gaming is an exciting and engaging experience for children and young people – but it can also create a platform for players to criticise, insult or even bully others. With in-game chat, forums and live streams in many online games, there are many ways unkind and aggressive behaviour can emerge. Try to find a moment to talk about your child's experiences when online and if you want to know how can you help your child enjoy online gaming, while making sure they – and you – know how to respond to bullying behaviour take a look at the following link <https://www.parents.parentzone.org.uk/morearticles/how-to-help-in-game-bullying>
